LEGEND

Two years ago the Prime Minister announced that rehabilitation of the Federal District would be the nation's tribute to the fallen in the war just ended. This map, from the initial report of the Committee, shows one of the bugbears to be tackled first: the network of railway trackage in the area. It is perhaps fitting that elimination of grade crossings should figure early in studies for the Capital. During the war years collisions between motor vehicles and trains resulted in the deaths of over 600 Canadians—a loss of Canadian life almost as great as that at Dieppe. (See also page 6 of this issue.)

news of the divisions

The month of June saw the first annual meetings of established Divisions of the Association, to elect their officers and plan their programs for the coming year. Readers of LAYOUT FOR LIVING who want to join these activities are urged to communicate with the newly-elected officers in their area.

BRITISH COLUMBIA

The Annual Meeting of the British Columbia Division was held in the Hotel Vancouver on the evening of June 27th, with 125 persons attending. The Secretary-Treasurer of the Division, Mr. J. T. Gawthrop, presented his report for the first year, observing that the success of community planning depends on an active part being undertaken by every interested individual in the community. He asked those present to join the Association and thus to show that B.C. "knows what she wants done in these matters."

Mr. Sumner Spaulding, planner of Los Angeles, spoke of the opportunities and needs for planning in North America. He spoke of the appalling waste of human energy and precious materials now going on in North American cities—waste that only the recent war woke us up to. He mentioned the work of the Tennessee Valley Authority as an exception all too likely to remain unique.

The speaker pointed out that planning must now be done, regardless of the political system practised. He said that technically, some requirements of defence were becoming oddly similar to the requirements of social welfare. But we shall do better in confidence than in fear—and certainly we shall throw less into sterile fireworks and therefore produce more abundantly what man needs. The will of the private citizen to grasp these facts and to act upon them is our only hope of survival.

Mr. Spaulding re-read a statement he had made before the American Institute of Architects: "If we as a nation hope to survive it is of the utmost necessity at the earliest possible date to demonstrate to the . . . people the need for the co-ordination of their physical pattern of life with the fruits of technology. Failing to do this, we can only be heading for total oblivion, or at least, to becoming a second-rate state." More of us must join the crusade to bring home these facts—now.

The following officers were elected to the Executive Committee for 1947-48:

G. E. Baynes, 1ST. VICE-CHAIRMAN.	West Vancouver
Prof. Frank Buck	Vancouver
J. T. Gawthrop, SECRETARY	Victoria
Major Dennis Godfrey	Okanagan Valley
A. G. Graham, 2ND VICE-CHAIRMAN	Victoria
Ted Russell	Vancouver
F. L. Shaw	Victoria
J. H. Swann	New Westminster
J. A. Walker, CHAIRMAN	Vancouver
W. F. Williams	Nelson
W. B. Young, REP. ON COUNCIL	North Vancouver

Local Branches are organized in Greater Victoria and Greater Vancouver, and have won wide support from labour, business and professional groups in fostering planning activity in those cities. The Vancouver Branch was recently addressed by Dr. Leonard Marsh, who was Research Advisor to the Curtis Committee on Housing and Community Planning in Canada. The Vancouver Branch sponsored the showing of the display "Your City and You" (see LAYOUT FOR LIV-ING No. 3-4, page 6) in a downtown show window; the display attracted much attention.

The Victoria Branch had a talk with Mr. J. H. Doughty-Davies, a planning adviser attached to the B.C. Bureau of Reconstruction. The Government Affairs Committee of the Greater Vancouver Board of Trade and Commerce has put before the City Council a brief endorsing the aims of CPAC; the brief describes the local activity of the Association, and goes on to say:

"It will be the purpose of these groups to assist and take part in the planning and development of each community with a view to a betterment of living conditions and general . . . orderliness of the community as a whole. Such planning, when implemented, will lead to a more orderly and beneficial use of the communities' lands and properties which, in turn, will benefit the resident and taxpayer by enlarging and placing at his disposal a greater number of domestic and recreational facilities. Needless to say, this would also reflect favourably upon the business life of the community."

The British Columbia Division at the time of writing consists of 5 Sustaining Members and 66 Active Members.

SASKATCHEWAN

The Provisional Committee in Saskatchewan met on June 25th at Wascana, and on the following day presented the aims of the Association to the 42nd annual convention of the Saskatchewan Urban Municipalities Association. This convention was attended by over 100 elected and appointed officials from every part of the Province, as well as by officials of the Provincial Government. The convention on June 27th adopted almost unanimously the following resolution:

"Whereas steps are being taken to form a Saskatchewan Division of the Community Planning Association of Canada, which Association has as its objective to foster public understanding of, and participation in, community planning in Canada; and

Whereas the formation of a Saskatchewan Division of the said Association will stimulate local understanding of and participation in Community Planning in the Province;

Now Therefore BE IT RESOLVED:

- that this Association of Urban Municipalities do endorse and approve of the purposes and objectives of the Association, and of the plan to establish a Provincial Division;
- that our Association subscribe to CPAC as a Sustaining Member;
- that the Executive be authorized to appoint to the Executive of the proposed Division when and as formed, a representative of this Association."

MANITOBA

The Manitoba Division held its first Annual Meeting on June 24th in the Legislative Building. A group of about one hundred persons heard an informal talk on Winnipeg's needs by Mr. A. V. Piggott, and saw the film "Growth of Cities," introduced by Mr. Eric Thrift. The formation of local Branches in Manitoba was discussed.

The following Executive Committee was elected for the year 1947-48:

Chairman: C. F. Greene, 224 Curry Bldg., Winnipeg
Vice-Chairman: Chris Fisher,
 67 Claremont Street, Norwood
3rd Member of Management Committee & Manitoba Member of National CPAC Council: H. E. Beresford, 346 Legislative Building, Winnipeg
Secretary: Mrs. W. J. Shepherd,
 605 Time Building, Winnipeg
Treasurer: E. D. Honeyman,
 915 Paris Building, Winnipeg

Executive Committee Members:

Avent, R. H.—City Surveyor's Office, Winnipeg
 McKay, Miss Francis—Women's Institute of Manitoba, 153 Legislative Building, Winnipeg
 Patton, Randolph—c/o Winnipeg Tribune, Winnipeg
 Russell, J. A.—School of Architecture, University of Manitoba
 Thrift, Eric W.—Metropolitan Plan of Greater Winnipeg

Both the Winnipeg group of members and the national office of CPAC had special displays made for exhibition to the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, which convened in that city during the week of July 7th. The Convention discussed housing and planning as a central theme this year. (See p. 4.)

Cyril F. Greene, newly elected Chairman of the Manitoba Division. Mr. Greene is a public relations consultant, and is active in Winnipeg Community clubs.

ONTARIO

The first Annual Meeting of the Ontario Division was held in the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, on the evening of June 27th. The constitution of the Division was adopted, and the following were among the resolutions passed:

- This Division of the CPAC believes that housing will always be a vital element in community planning and the need for housing is at present the outstanding problem of Ontario communities. In the development of housing sound community planning principles must be observed.
- Furthermore, this Division of the CPAC affirms its determination to strive for provision of adequate housing for the people of Ontario. It believes that adequate housing cannot be provided for the family of the low-income level without the intensified operation of a public housing program.
- Recognizing the valuable work that has been done by existing local organizations whose aims are similar to those of the CPAC, it is the opinion of this Division that consideration should be given to making such changes in the Constitution of the CPAC (as) will make it possible for those groups to qualify as local Branches.
- That this meeting request the incoming executive, Ontario Division, and the national Council to consider ways and means of promoting action on neighbourhood improvement plans as a vital element in community planning and that these bodies be requested to consider preparing and publishing an authoritative guide on neighbourhood improvement.
- The Members of the Ontario Division of the CPAC recognizing that an exchange of Members' views on matters concerned with Community Planning is desirable periodically, recommend to the Executive Committee that the Ontario Division convene a Provincial Community Planning Conference annually.

The following were elected to the Executive Committee for 1947-48:

Chairman:

W. H. Clark, 75 Spadina Road, Toronto

First Vice-Chairman:

James Dutton, Peterborough

Second Vice-Chairman:

Mrs. Cameron H. Montrose, Windsor

first canadian planning film

Last month saw the premiere of "Tale of New Cities," the first Canadian film we know of with planning for its main theme. In thirty minutes of fast-moving scenes in colour, "Tale of New Cities" shows how the wide-awake citizens of a small city, set in an agricultural countryside, have seen to the sound development of their community in the past—and have taken steps to ensure a gradually improving setting for their lives in the years to come.

A democrat from afar determines to go in search of popular planning achievement. He arrives in a Canadian city of about 20,000 people; and they show him how they have taken opportunity by the fore-lock, to improve the neighbourhood where they live, and their city as a whole. He meets their leading citizens and their planning consultant, examines the results of their past vision and their program for future development. At the end he reports back to his co-patriots, and by this time much that was shown him 'on paper' has since been realized in three dimensions. He explains to his fellow-countrymen that the transformation was possible only because of the determination of ordinary citizens to see the job through, combined with their vision of how it could be well done.

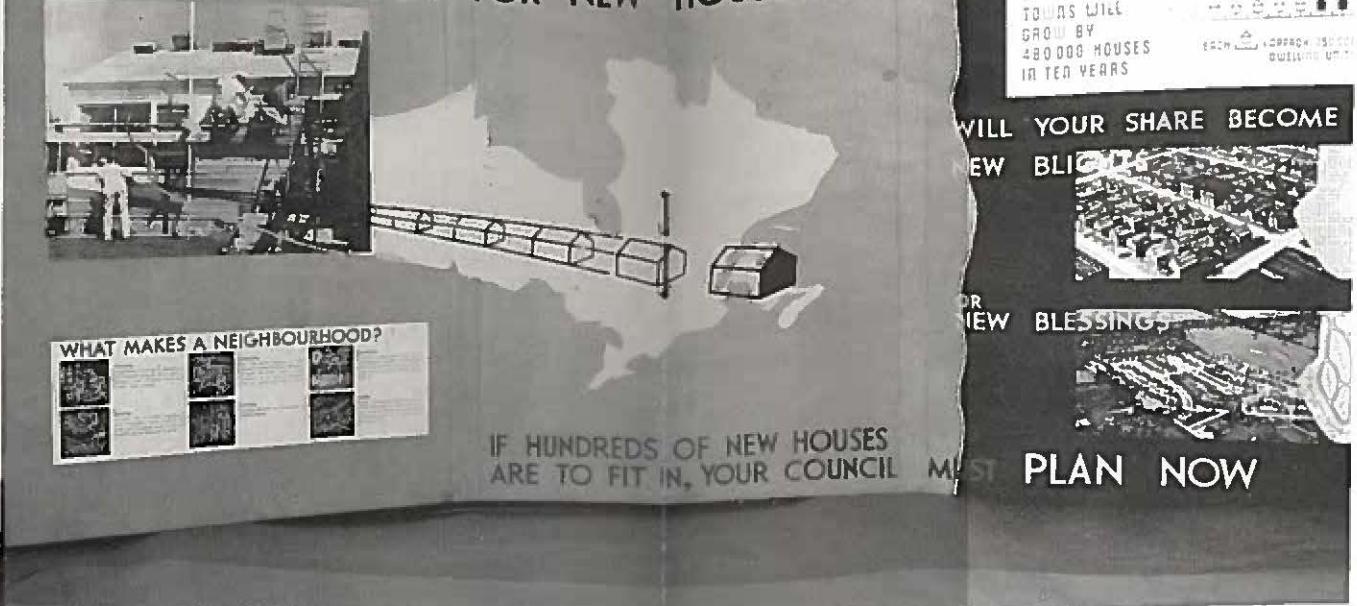

In 16 mm. gauge only, "Tale of New Cities" will shortly be available from the Information Division, Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation, Ottawa. (The film was forecast in LAYOUT FOR LIVING No. 3-4 as "Canadian Town".) It is suggested that Branches of the Community Planning Association of Canada should communicate with the national Secretary Treasurer with regard to showings.

new brunswick planning board

The Minister of Industry and Reconstruction of New Brunswick, the Hon. J. André Doucet, has recently announced the personnel of the provincial Planning Board provided for in 1947 amendments to the New Brunswick Town Planning Act (see LAYOUT FOR LIVING No. 5, pages 6-7). The Chairman is W. A. Moore (Deputy Minister of Industry and Reconstruction); the Secretary is L. T. Leeman (Commissioner of Municipal Affairs). Other members of the new Board are: A. W. Barbour (Deputy Minister of Public Works), Dr. G. H. Prince (Deputy Minister of Lands and Mines), Dr. J. A. Melanson (Chief Medical Health Officer), H. M. Armstrong (Fire Marshal), D. W. Griffiths (Director of the Bureau of Information), J. K. King (Deputy Minister of Agriculture), Dr. H. J. Rowley (Chairman of Resources Development Board) and J. E. Hughes (Attorney-General's Department).

According to the New Brunswick Municipal Monthly for June, 1947, the Board will assist in areas where no local planning commission has been set up, will help in the establishment of local commissions and aid them in their work, will protect and enhance areas of scenic value, will compile regional data, and will be especially concerned with areas deemed likely to develop rapidly. It will also help the inhabitants of such areas to establish their own self-government under the Local District Improvement Act and the Municipal Acts. The Board invites correspondence from New Brunswickers on these matters; letters should be addressed to Leonard T. Leeman, Secretary of the Board and Commissioner of Municipal Affairs, Fredericton,

IS YOUR TOWN READY FOR NEW HOUSING?

Light portable display mounted by the Association at the Winnipeg meeting of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities last month. This display is made for setting up on a table, and is now available to Branches and other interested groups on the same basis as the previous exhibit "Planned Development" (see LAYOUT FOR LIVING No. 3-4, page 6). Inquiries should be addressed to the Secretary Treasurer, Room 361, 56 Lyon Street, Ottawa.

correspondence course in town and country planning

The School of Planning and Research for Regional Development in London announces a post-war Correspondence Course, similar to the one offered during the war to members of the British forces. The new Course is intended particularly for men and women outside the British Isles. It will take about one year to complete, and covers the material on the Town Planning Institute syllabus.

The subject matter is divided in about 30 sections in six main parts: Physical features; Physical and social survey; Transport and distribution; Local and regional planning; Layout of various types of development; Law, administration, economics and implementation of planning. Each part is given under the guidance of a specialist, and is accompanied by illustrations, book-lists and other documents.

No diploma is given for the Course itself, but it is considered sufficient to prepare suitable candidates to undertake the Final Examination of the Town Planning Institute. The fee for the Correspondence Course is twenty pounds sterling, which includes necessary text books and criticism of written work.

Canadian veterans should inquire of the Training Division, Rehabilitation Branch, in their local Office of the Dept. of Veterans' Affairs with regard to their eligibility for Training Benefits to undertake this course.

Readers of LAYOUT FOR LIVING interested in this Course should apply for fuller information to the Secretary, School of Planning and Research for Regional Development, 34 Gordon Square, London W.C.1, England.

no successful subdivisions

On page 7 of the July issue of LAYOUT FOR LIVING we said (in bold face type) that every planning board member should acquire a copy of that excellent little pamphlet "Successful Subdivisions" from the United States Superintendent of Documents. It is a very good outline of subdivision planning—so good, indeed, that we received a letter from the Superintendent of Documents on the day after we went to press, saying that his stock is exhausted. We regret any inconvenience we may have caused our readers, and would suggest that some public libraries and other agencies may have copies for examination. The Federal Housing Administration has published a number of other pamphlets in the same series, at modest prices (see LAYOUT FOR LIVING No. 3-4, pages 4 and 5).

Word has also come to us that the Canadian Information Service has no further copies of the issues of Canadian Affairs referred to in our list on community centres in Canada. These too are available in some Canadian public libraries.

planning documents: ontario

Further to our list (LAYOUT FOR LIVING No. 3-4, page 2) we have received the following from the Ontario Department of Planning and Development: Conservation Authorities Act, 1946. (An act for the establishment of conservation authorities for the purpose of conservation, etc.) Amended 1947.

Thames Valley Report, 1946.
River Valley Development in Southern Ontario, 1945.
Conservation in Eastern Ontario, 1946.

present british planning principles

The Town and Country Planning Bill (1947) has been under discussion in the British Houses of Parliament since early this year. We hope to present an extended summary of its provisions in the near future, since the Bill embodies a flexible planning process of a kind unfamiliar on this continent. The Bill is of added interest to CPAC Members inasmuch as some of the ideas contained in it, like some contained in the New Towns Act of 1946, had their origin in the discussions of voluntary societies in the United Kingdom. The achievements of our opposite numbers in the British Isles will be the subject of a paper to be given at our National Conference on Community Planning in October (see page 7).

But as a prelude to the description of the Town and Country Planning Bill, we think the following remarks of the Rt. Hon. Lewis Silkin, Minister of Town and Country Planning, explain some basic ideas to which the Bill gives statutory form:

"I realize that in the last resort, the task which this Bill is designed to secure can only be successfully carried out if the functions of town and country planning are understood and accepted by the general public. It is essential that it should be appreciated that town and country planning is not merely the preservation of amenities in our towns and countryside, important as that is. I am afraid that in some quarters where one would have expected the functions of town and country planning to be fully understood, there is still the impression that my functions and those of my Department are exclusively concerned with amenity..."

"The new conception, the wider view of planning, is that planning is concerned to secure that our limited land resources are used to the best advantage of the nation as a whole, and it provides for the often conflicting claims upon any particular piece of land. Planning must ensure that economic, industrial and social needs are met in the most efficient manner. It is a much bigger problem than one of mere amenities. It must recognize the need for land for all sorts of purposes, some of them apparently not very popular..."

"The business of town and country planning must be to reconcile conflicting claims on the use of any particular piece of land. Town and country planning must also recognize that some uses of land which are necessary for the welfare of the community, will not be carried out at all unless the community undertakes the task."

interim report on the national capital

On July 7th the Prime Minister tabled in the House of Commons the first report to emanate from the National Capital Planning Committee. The document recommends certain improvements in the network of railroads and main arterial streets of the Capital, and the acquisition of lands for re-disposition of industrial undertakings. Mr. Mackenzie King said that careful consideration will be given to the recommendations by the Cabinet and the municipalities concerned before any decision is made.

Publication of the report was apparently made necessary in advance of the main body of the Committee's recommendations, because uncertainty about the future of areas now eligible for development is said to be discouraging industries from locating in the Capital area. The present freight distribution yards are more central than they need be, with modern trucking, and result in over 100 level crossings in the Federal District. The Committee regard the solution of the railway problem as the primary requisite in the study of comprehensive development of the Ottawa-Hull area. The municipalities cannot at present refuse to permit building on sites adjoining central spur-tracks; commercial developments, even since V-E Day, thus threaten to jeopardize the national values inherent in the setting of the central parts of the Capital. (See map on cover.)

The Railway Sub-Committee of the National Capital Planning Committee suggests that the solution lies in the designation of new outlying industrial and freight-yard areas to which, over a period of years, these existing facilities and like additional ones can be directed, ultimately leaving the central yards and adjoining properties free for rehabilitation in the better interests of the community and the nation. The Railway Sub-Committee urges the removal of considerable trackage in the central area, and the construction of overpasses or underpasses at a number of points. Areas northwest of Hull and southeast of Ottawa are suggested for acquisition as new industrial sites. The committee believes that this 'decanting' operation can be in some degree self-liquidating, but asks for a sum and the requisite authority to begin it forthwith.

This report also indicates that the Roads and Traffic Sub-Committee has co-operated with the Ottawa Planning Area Board (set up on the Ontario side of the Capital under the provincial Planning and Development Act of 1946) in studying highway approaches from Ontario points, and in the relief of the most troublesome traffic problems in Ottawa.

The National Capital Planning Committee was established by a by-law of the Federal District Commission dated April 1946, and consists of the following: Frederic Bronson (Chairman, and Chairman of the FDC), Hon. Alphonse Fournier (Minister of Public Works), Charles David and A. S. Mathers (Royal Architectural Institute of Canada), E. L. Cousins and Arthur Surveyer (Engineering Institute of Canada), Controllers Goodwin and McRae (City of Ottawa), D. P. Cruikshank (other local governments, Ontario side), J. P. Carrière (City Manager of Hull), Dr. R. Leduc (other local governments, Quebec side), C. G. Cowan, Watson Sellar (Auditor-General of Canada), and H. R. Cram, Secretary. M. Jacques Greber of Paris and a staff of Canadian professionals are at the service of the Committee. The staff includes M. Edouard Fiset, Mr. J. M. Kitchen (Vice-President of CPAC) and Mr. D. L. McDonald (President of the Canadian Society of Landscape Architects and Town Planners).

Some readers of LAYOUT FOR LIVING will recognize in these present recommendations some similarities to those contained in the so-called Bennett Plan presented by the Holt Commission on the National Capital exactly thirty-one years ago. We shall try to keep our readers posted on further decisions regarding the Federal District, knowing that there is much interest throughout Canada in the future development of the Capital.

NEW BRUNSWICK

In mid-June the Saint John Branch held a very successful meeting in the Admiral Beatty Hotel. Mr. Frederick Lee was in the Chair, and Dr. R. J. Collins was the principal speaker. He stressed the need for comprehensive plans for the development of the community, pointing out that the cost could in fairness only be assessed against the charges now paid by all, for the disease and social disorganization resulting from inadequate housing and living conditions. He said that by 'adequate residential accommodation' we must realize that we have to include street layout, school locations, water and sewerage services, and the prevention of unhealthy developments outside municipal boundaries. He commended highly the work of the Saint John Town Planning Commission, but added that it had only described the work to be done; the citizens of Saint John must see that the work is carried out.

The Chairman said that the Saint John Branch of the Association could crystallize existing opinion in favour of the plan and funnel it to a focal point, so that the City would ultimately taste the rich fruits of which the plan was but the seed.

About twenty-five organizations were represented at the meeting, standing for all the vocational, religious, business, welfare, educational and cultural interests of Saint John. Those elected to the Executive for 1947-48 were:

*Chairman: Alfred Bedingfield
Vice Chairman: John Palmer
Secretary Treasurer: Miss Josephine Rowley
James DeLay
J. A. V. Mott
Rev. S. S. Poole
Rev. W. C. V. Martin
Louis Stephen
L. J. Anderson
Mrs. M. M. Ryan*

NOVA SCOTIA

The Nova Scotia Division held an organizational meeting in Dalhousie University on June 23rd, Mr. George Bates in the Chair. A number of applications for membership were received at the meeting. Mr. Ira Maenab described the purposes and growth of the Association, and two films were shown, to illustrate both the need for a popular grasp of the essentials of community development, and the cost of failure to organize that development comprehensively.

An Executive was elected for the year 1947-48, consisting of the following officers:

*Honorary Chairman: Hon. J. H. MacQuarrie, Minister of Municipal Affairs
Honorary Vice Chairman: Mr. R. M. Hattie
Chairman: R. T. Donald
Vice-Chairman: Ira P. Maenab
George T. Bates, Halifax
Mrs. J. P. Dumaresq, Halifax
Dr. D. J. MacNeil, St. Francis-Xavier University
C. W. Morrison, Sydney
Mrs. Fletcher Smith, Halifax*

It was agreed that the Chairman should be the Nova Scotia Councillor on the national Council of CPAC for the period beginning next autumn, and that the Vice Chairman should serve as his alternate on the Council.

Membership in the Maritime Provinces has grown to 34 Active Members and 2 Sustaining Members up to the time of writing.
